

METHOD AND APPLICATION FOR REMOVING MATERIAL FROM DOCUMENTS FOR EXTERNAL SOURCES

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An application is used for eliminating or removing from documentation particular portions of text and/or drawings that include technical data or information that is not to be made available to persons outside of the U.S. without established license or legal agreements. After editing, the content of the documentation does not include references to restricted military programs, restricted technologies under U.S. Government export controls, a company's controlled technologies and a third party's intellectual property information. The application can assist a user in identifying restricted information, inserting proper document marking or data tagging and executing appropriate web-processing to create documentation for global distribution that is compliant under U.S. Government export control regulations and under the company's own general proprietary information and technical agreements.